RFID Global Solution Receives Boeing Silver Eagle Award

Rogers, AR, October 18, 2007 – RFID Global Solution, Inc., a leading RFID systems integrator specializing in both active and passive RFID applications, announced today that it received the Boeing Silver Eagle award for implementing a groundbreaking RFID solution to track and monitor Time and Temperature Sensitive Material – Boeing.

RFID Global Solution created a system which, for the first time, tracks and monitors the movement of product through sub-zero temperatures from manufacturer to end user.

Dale Hollon, Sr Director, RFID Global Solution, "Tracking items 'Point-to-Point' using RFID is not a novel concept. What is exceptional about this tracking system is the environment where it works. The product is first scanned when leaving the supplier while it is packed in dry ice at -100°F. When it arrives at the end user, several hundred units are placed into freezers kept at -60°F to -90°F that utilize the RFID Global Solution 'SmartFreezer Insert™'."

The solution uses product information collected at the supplier via, SmartCart™, such as product code, date of manufacture, and date of expiration. Data is collected from the SmartFreezer Insert™ insert using GlobalEdge™. The data is then analyzed and alerts are sent out to departments when levels are outside acceptable parameters. Alerts can be sent directly to suppliers who can then start the reorder process.

Joe Leone, CTO, RFID Global Solution, added "The SmartFreezer Insert™ is another key product that will provide a positive ROI throughout the aerospace industry".
